Six steps from the sofa to the first question.

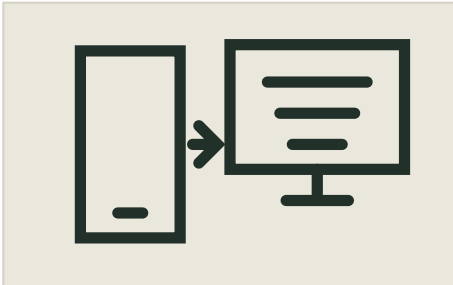

1

1. Connect the laptop to the TV

With an HDMI cable, or by casting the browser tab. The TV shows the laptop's screen.

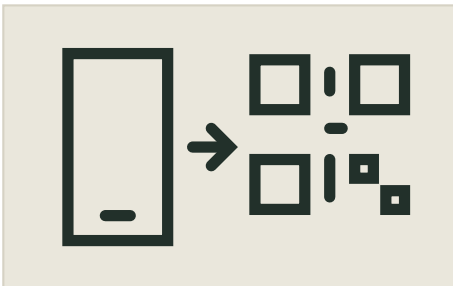

2

2. Open the Party Screen

On the laptop, open the app's address ending in /tv: it shows a code. On your phone, open your party, choose Add a Party Screen and scan it. A laptop linked to your parties can instead open the party and choose Party Screen. Press Start the Party Screen: it fills the TV.

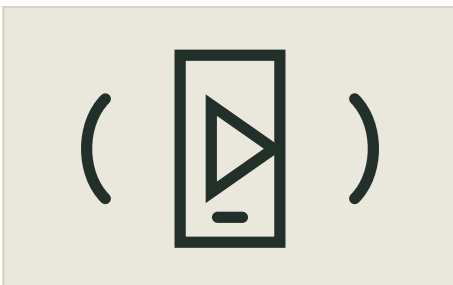

3

3. Guests scan the code

On your phone, press Open the party: your phone is now the remote. The TV shows a QR code and a six-character code. Guests scan it with their phone's camera, type their name and tap Join to play.

4

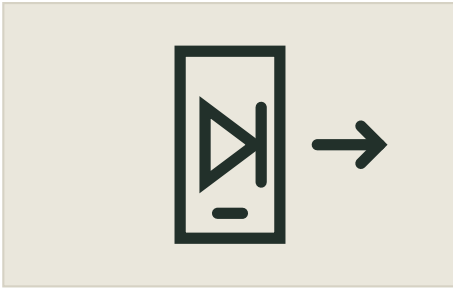

4. Press Start

When everyone is in, press Start on the remote. The first question opens on the TV and on every phone.

5. Press Next

Each question closes by itself when its time is up and its answer shows. Press Next question, then, after the last one, Show results, then Back to lineup for the next game.

6

6. If the connection is lost

After ten seconds the device that holds the party asks: Connection lost. Continue in TV-only mode? Choose Continue in TV-only mode, read each question aloud, then press Reveal and Next. Guests answer aloud, in teams or on paper. When the connection returns, the party picks up where it was.
